

If the Nashville News is really the accredited spokesman for the upstream interests then we are to take its declaration today as meaning that our northwestern neighbors are more concerned with stopping any reservoir whatsoever at the Millwood location than in getting dams of their own.

Says the Nashville editorial: "While the Engineers have favored a 'wet' Millwood Dam, with stipulations, congressional figures from all states concerned have said repeatedly that so long as there is controversy over Millwood nothing will be built. The obvious course to take from there is to give full support to the upstream dams and to continue strong opposition to anything at Millwood."

This, precisely, is the policy line that has been pursued by Dierks, Forests, Inc., ever since the development of the Little River Valley was authorized by congress a decade ago — no reservoir at Millwood, and preferably no dams anywhere.

But in writing at this late day the Nashville News editor has skipped a vital chapter in the book of controversy.

No appropriations are likely, it is true, while a project is in controversy — but he has overlooked the fact that a compromise was advanced to resolve the controversy, that said compromise was presented to the review board of the Corps of Engineers, and by them accepted last Tuesday.

What the Nashville News proposes now isn't a renewal of mere controversy but a frank and open filibuster.

I doubt whether it's worth the paper it's written on.

We have been 10 years trying to reach an agreement on how the Little River Valley is to be developed. And now we are close to a fair and workable program with the initial construction project embracing a modified Millwood downstream and one upstream dam built simultaneously — giving water to all, both upstream and downstream.

Hope, Texarkana, Magnolia, Ashdown and other towns have endorsed the compromise, but it's taken years to bring about such agreement even among the downstream interests. Nor is it a 100% agreement even now. For instance, Thursday's issue of the Nevada County Picayune carries an appeal by Roy Loomis asking the directors of the Prescott Chamber of Commerce to honor what he says was a majority vote of the membership endorsing a "wet" Millwood. That's Prescott's business and none of ours — we merely mention it in passing. Neither the upstream nor downstream interests are absolutely of one accord among themselves — but now we are close to final action, and, as the attorneys say, "Time is of the essence."

The Arkansas River Valley has its program of dams now underway in the congress. Unless we use the working majority we now have to implement the Little River Valley program we are in danger of being sidetracked by the larger Arkansas River business — cancelling out the economic dreams of our section for a generation.

Rich American Pair Flying to Moscow

BERLIN (AP) — A wealthy American tourist and his pretty wife headed for Moscow in their private plane today on the first such flight behind the Iron Curtain.

William P. Lear, 54, and his wife Moya, 41, flew a short, first-stage hop from West Berlin's Tempelhof airport to the Soviet Schoenefeld airfield outside East Berlin today.

If all goes as promised by the Russians, they will pick up a Soviet navigator, get a final clearance from Moscow and depart for the Soviet capital late today or tomorrow.

"We are just going as tourists," said Lear, a veteran flier, aviation equipment manufacturer and prize-winning inventor of an automatic pilot for jet aircraft.

"We want to catch the big Soviet air show Sunday," he explained. "We expect to be in Moscow only a few days because we want to get back to the kids."

Lear, a heavy-set man who wears glasses and looks more like a banker than an adventurer, is flying a twin-engine Cessna 310 which can carry five passengers.

"I'm sure the Russians will like to get a look at my plane," he said. "It's the best-equipped private plane in the world."

U. S. Concerned Over Possibility of Steel Strike

By NORMAN WALKER
WASHINGTON (AP) — Government officials today privately expressed increasing concern over the possibility of a steel strike but said, for the time being, they intend to keep out of the bargaining.

However, it was reported that if the industry and Steelworker's Union still are stuck in their present statement by the middle of next week the government may take a new look at the advisability of intervening.

A strike is feared by administration officials not only because it would upset the economy but also because it would present delicate labor problems for decision in a campaign year.

Should a walkout come President Eisenhower presumably would have to consider invoking the national emergency provisions of the Taft-Hartley law. This could lead to a 60-day court injunction against continuing the walkout and possibly postpone a steel showdown until close to the elections.

Officials see no likelihood that Eisenhower will invoke the T-H Act before the expiration of the present steel contract at midnight June 30.

Airforce Fund Increase Is Called Phony

By ELTON C. FAY
QUANTICO, Va. (AP) Secretary of Defense Wilson tagging as "phony" Senate efforts to increase Air Force funds, has left open the question of whether he would use the extra money if it is voted.

Wilson delivered his judgment of the money-boosing proposals during a news conference last night at this Marine Corps base where many of the nation's top military officials are gathered for the fourth annual "Secretaries' Conference."

After the "phony" remark came out, Wilson apparently felt it may have been too strong. "Well, maybe I shouldn't have said it," he said.

However, he added he "would just like to see the people that vote for the expenditure, vote for the taxes to produce the money to pay for it, the same people stand up and be counted."

In Washington, some 30 miles to the northeast, the Senate yesterday took up a defense money bill totaling $34,938,000,000. Debate on the measure was suspended today to allow consideration of a bill to extend the Defense Production Act. Voting on the defense bill is expected next week.

Manufacturer Says American Men World's Best Dressed, Dislikes European Suits

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — Joe, you wear your pants too long. Your coat/sleeve is too long also. But in spite of that, Joe, you are the male peacock of the world, the best dressed man on earth.

Who says so? Michael Daroff says so. Daroff is president of H. Daroff and Sons, a Philadelphia firm which this year expects to turn out 900,000 men's suits and sports outfits.

Many an American wife thinks her husband is downright skillful when it comes to taking out the garbage or drying the dishes, but she complains that too often he looks like a walking gunysack. When she thinks of a well dressed man, she thinks of a Continental type, a suave European.

Faubus Group Okays School Fund Increase

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — State aid to local school districts would be almost doubled if a recommendation of the Governor's Advisory Committee on Education materials.

In its final report yesterday, GACE suggested around 18 million dollars a year additional in state assistance, which now runs approximately 20 million a year.

The report also called for another six millions for state-supported colleges.

The committee didn't go into the question of how the money could be raised. That wasn't part of its job under the conditions laid down when Gov. Orval Faubus appointed the group.

Apparently the 1957 Legislature will have to dig up some new tax sources, if the plan is to have a chance of becoming a reality.

The detailed report was largely the work of GACE consultant Francis G. Connell of New York, but the committee inserted a provision that school districts would have to show in their budgets an expenditure of $130 or more per year for each pupil in average daily attendance.

Funds would be withheld from any district falling below the minimum figure in direct proportion to the deficiency.

The committee went on record as opposing a proposed constitutional amendment for a 30-mill ceiling on local school taxes. There currently is no maximum in the amount of millage which may be voted.

Berserk Man Leaves Three Persons Dead

WARREN, Ohio (AP) — A 37-year-old man, enraged over a quarrel with his wife, used an automobile last night to speed on a shooting spree which left two of his sisters-in-law and a girl dead and a man wounded, sheriff's deputies said.

The body of the girl, kidnapped at gunpoint while she was sitting in a parked car with two boys, was found today in a ditch along a lonely road northwest of here.

Deputy Sheriff Harry Crozier identified the man as Alfred Wilson, 37, of nearby Leavittsburg. A statewide hunt was under way.

Crozier said Wilson went berserk after driving to the home of a sister-in-law, Mrs. Geraldine Brown, 30, of Leavittsburg, to see his wife who was staying there.

Fred Saifer Jr. is only 12. He gets his diploma today.

The brilliant youngster, graduating from the Drew School here, hopes to enter the University of California this fall to study to be a nuclear physicist.

"I hope to play a part in elimination of war and nuclear explosions," he says. "Real scientists work for peace — not war. Unless the world's nations stop atomic tests, the world's population will be obliterated in 1,000 years."

Fred, who will be 13 on Oct. 6, still only 4 feet 8 inches high and weighs a scant 75 pounds. But the handsome, dark haired youth packs a lot of weight upstairs.

Way Open for Vote on School Building Aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — The way was opened today for the House to vote probably next week, on a four-year federal aid school construction program.

The legislation cleared the House Rules Committee yesterday. It had been bottled up there for several months because of the effect it might have on public school segregation.

Southerners on the committee have opposed the bill for one reason: Rep. Powell (D-NY) has said he will propose an amendment on the House floor that would forbid federal grants to schools which maintain segregation.

Such an amendment would be bound to touch off a major fight. If the amendment were approved and the bill got to the Senate, its chances would be slim in the face of a southern filibuster.

There has been a feeling in recent weeks among House leaders, however, that sentiment for the Powell amendment has cooled.

With this in mind, hope was expressed that a majority of members would favor sidetracking such an amendment in order to get the measure through.

The legislation calls for federal grants for school construction at the rate of 400 million dollars a year for four years. In addition, a revolving fund of not more than 750 million dollars would be set up to buy local school bonds if these couldn't be disposed of in the market at reasonable interest rates.

The measure is a Democratic substitute for proposals by President Eisenhower. He suggested federal grants at the rate of 250 million dollars a year for five years.

Reports New Radio Signals From Mars

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — New radio signals "which presumably originate on Venus" were reported today by an Ohio State University radio astronomer.

The findings were made by Dr. John D. Kraus, director of the university's radio observatory. Earlier this month, Dr. Kraus reported radio signals resembling static from terrestrial thunderstorms were received from the planet Venus — sometimes referred to as earth's "twin."

The astronomer said the new signals of a distinctly different type, resemble radio telegraph in many ways.

"What even phenomenon is responsible for the signals must be of rather complex type," Dr. Kraus said.

This type of radio emission has "many of the characteristics of signals from a terrestrial radio telegraph transmitting station," he said.

Sufficiently numerous and varied observations of the signals have been made to make it appear very likely that they do come from Venus, Dr. Kraus added.

Nehru's itinerary also includes stops at Frankfurt, Hamburg and Bonn in Germany, and visits to Paris, Beirut, Yugoslavia, Cairo, and Beirut, Lebanon.

Tito Reports Unity With Russians

LONDON (AP) — President Tito said today he and the leaders of the Soviet Union had "abandoned all that was bad between us," the Moscow radio reported.

The Yugoslav leader spoke on his arrival at Kiev enroute home after a triumphant three-week visit to the Soviet Union in which he and the Kremlin bosses agreed to cooperate in the future on the basis of complete equality.

Once an outcast of the Communist family by orders of Stalin, Tito was quoted by the Moscow radio as saying in his Kiev speech, delivered in Russian:

"The most important thing is this job which we have done now with the leaders of your government. We have abandoned all that was bad between us, which was caused neither by the Soviet nor the Yugoslav people. All this should be forgotten."

"We have embarked on a new path. There is no difference between you, the Soviet people, and the Yugoslav people."

Hall Figures Ike's Health to Be Demo Issue

By RAYMOND LAHR
WASHINGTON (UP) — Republican National Chairman Leonard W. Hall said today the health issue will be ineffective if the Democrats try to exploit it against President Eisenhower in the 1956 campaign.

Hall met with newsmen during a break in an all-day meeting of the GOP arrangements committee to complete plans for the Republican national convention beginning Aug. 20 in San Francisco.

He said it is "not news" that the Democrats are trying to emphasize Mr. Eisenhower's heart attack and recent operation as a campaign issue.

"It's apparent," he said, "they have been trying to find an issue for the past two years and haven't found one."

Asked if he thinks the health issue would be effective, Hall replied: "In my opinion it will not because of the completely frank way in which the White House has reported on the President's health."

The GOP meeting received word from the still-hospitalized President on his future plans. The leaders went ahead on the assumption that the party will nominate Mr. Eisenhower and Vice President Richard M. Nixon at San Francisco.

Former Sen. Harry Darby, Kansas national committeeman, told newsmen here was a feeling "the meeting had Mr. Eisenhower 'is a candidate — no doubt about it.'"

Hall reported that the committee discussed the question of four days to three but would make no decision today. This reflected concern among some GOP leaders that it might be difficult to hold a national television audience interest when there is so little doubt about the outcome of the convention.

Making Plans for the GOP Convention

By D. HAROLD OLIVER
WASHINGTON (AP) — Working on the assumption that President Eisenhower will run again, a committee on arrangements meets today to approve final plans for the Republican National convention.

The 40-member committee headed by GOP National Chairman Leonard W. Hall, expects no direct word from Eisenhower who is recuperating from an operation in Walter Reed Hospital.

But Hall said earlier in the week that the party was proceeding with convention plans on the basis that Eisenhower will not change his mind about a second term. He predicted then the President will speak out on the subject at the time and place of his own choosing.

Democrats mean while are announcing plans for their nominee — whoever he is — to conduct an active "whistlestop" type of campaign this fall.

The GOP arrangements group faced the task of picking a key notetaker and other officials for the convention opening in San Francisco Aug. 20.

It also was expected to debate a proposal to shorten the convention from four to three days, a step looking to the quick approval of an Eisenhower-Nixon ticket in the second spot.

Some party members were reported feeling that original plans for a four-day meeting would leave too many dull spots for television viewers.

Higher Number of State Measles Cases

LITTLE ROCK (UP) — The weekly Arkansas health report again showed a higher number of cases of measles than for the same week last year, and a continuation of the blank polio record.

The state board of health said 11 new cases of measles were reported in Arkansas last week, compared to 50 cases for the 24th week of 1955.

No new cases of polio were reported last week, leaving the total at 13 cases. The number of polio cases reported at this time last year was 42.

Soaking Rains Break Drought in Missouri

BETHANY, Mo. (AP)—Good, soaking rains came to northwest Missouri's drought belt yesterday but farmers said it wasn't enough and Mayor Raymond K. Wheeler of Bethany said "it didn't do a thing for us here in town."

Bethany has been pinched for water for months.

Yesterday's rain—almost two inches here by some measurements but only 1.09 on the Weather Bureau gauge—did lift the level of the town's reservoir appreciably.

Mayor Wheeler said it held no more than enough for three days.

The town's 3,000 residents pinched their hopes on East Big Creek after hearing three inches of rain had fallen 2 miles upstream at Ridgeway.

But hours later, the creek still was only a trickle. Most of the rain had soaked into the ground. Pools and the dry sand bottom had absorbed the scant runoff.

Wheeler said Bethany probably would recover enough from East Big and West Big Creeks to get along another 10 days.

Bethany has had only six inches of rain in eight months, and has been under severe water restrictions.

When Mrs. W. P. Young and children came to town to visit her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ben Grouch, her father bought 1,000 gallons of water and had it delivered to the reservoir to compensate for the extra consumption. Crouch is editor for the Republican-Clipper, Bethany's weekly newspaper.

Mayor Wheeler said the town couldn't afford the expense of hauling water. He said emergency plans were being drawn up if the supply fails completely. He still had hopes the Army or some other government agency will step in and build an emergency pipeline to Grand River.

Farmers said the rain was wonderful for current crops.

As the rains came yesterday, Robert Hall, from the Department of Agriculture in Washington, wound up a survey of the 11 counties to determine if they should be declared a drought disaster area.

The department recently rejected a plea by Missouri's governor for such a designation but now is having another look. It would make farmers eligible for emergency feed and easier credit. And it probably would bring the Army in to set up an emergency water supply.

The forecast for today: Chance of widely scattered thundershowers.

Kansas City Beer Strike Is Ended

KANSAS CITY (AP)—A three-week beer strike here ended last night with agreement on a wage increase in a new two-year contract.

Thirteen distributors and two breweries were shut down by the strike and the beer supply in most taverns was scant.

About 300 members of the Brewery and Soft Drink Workers Local 46 had asked a 15-cent hourly wage increase this year and another 15 cents next year. The new contract calls for hikes of 12 1/2 cents an hour each year.

Delivery men now will get a $49 a week plus a five-cent commission on each case of beer they deliver. The bottlers' new scale is $82.20 a week and the Brewers' scale is $88.60.

The workers also will get paid holidays yearly; three weeks paid vacation after 10 years, and four weeks after 17 years.

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A presidential Medal of Freedom, highest honor for a civilian, was presented last night to Dr. Theodore Von Karman at an Institute of Aeronautical Science dinner in his honor.

Dr. Von Karman's complex theoretical work is credited by aviation leaders as providing much of the foundation for modern aerodynamics.

Dr. Von Karman, born in Hungary and a U. S. citizen since 1936, served as director of the Guggenheim Aeronautical Laboratory at California Institute of Technology from 1930 to 1944. He is now chairman of the NATO advisory group for air research and development.

Sunday School Lesson

By William E. Gilroy, D. D.

Imprisoned in body, but free in spirit—that was in the experience of the Apostle Paul.

The thrilling experience in the prison at Philippi (Acts 16), with its midnight earthquake and its opened bars, was but a part of his actual imprisonment. He was a prisoner at Rome for a long period but, considering much of the brutality of Roman discipline, a privileged prisoner, in detention in his own house. (Acts 28:16).

He was a prisoner on board ship, on his way to Rome, when the shipwreck described in Acts 27 occurred; and Paul became the real commander, emerging above both the captain of the ship and the Roman centurion. That was the Christian Paul, the indomitable man of the free spirit.

But apart from actual detention, Paul in many ways was not a free agent. His course was set by a free agent, and by the course of events. It was evidence of the masterful free spirit that he turned everything to advantage making the most outwardly discouraging circumstances the occasions and scenes of Christian triumph.

In Ephesus, where a great riot raged over him and his companions (Acts 19), and in Philippi, where he was jailed, strong Christian churches were established. In evidence are the Epistles to the Ephesians and the Philippians. Not only do these Epistles indicate the strength of the churches were established there they mark also the quality of the Christian disciples. Passages like the prayer in Ephesus 3 and passages in Philippians are among the finest that Paul wrote, expressing the very height of Christian experience.

Paul's conquest through the freedom of the Christian spirit over every adversity ought to be an example and an encouragement to lesser souls.

We are all, in a sense, prisoners of circumstance, subject to limitations and frustrations over which we have no control, unless we abandon ourselves to them and just give up. We may exaggerate these adversities; they may often be more imagined than real. But, equally often, they may be acute and apparently immovable. Neither but decisions and actions of the free spirit can turn them like Paul's adversities, into occasions of triumph.

Some of these imprisoning circumstances may be little more than the common coin of daily life, but they may be none the less acute.

We are familiar with the young woman with an urge to make a career for herself, kept at home by family obligations, perhaps to an invalid mother; or the boy who would like to be out on his own, doomed to help a family that needs him.

Yet, in such frustrating circumstances, young women and young men have often achieved a character, and even a measure of happiness, that others who faulted all obligations have never achieved.

What moved Paul was a sense of destiny, a will of God, for the full attainment of which he sought above all else, allowing nothing to swerve him from his purpose. Even lesser souls can make life victorious, if a free pose dominate them as they did spirit and a sense of God's purpose the life of St. Paul.

were the best dressed, Daroff said flatly:

"None of them. The English still go around in bowler hats and suits that look two sizes too small for them. On the Continent the suits are more comfortable but they have a box-like look."

"American clothing is designed to flatter a man and make him look taller. In Europe they don't bother to flatter a customer—they just cover him up."

Daroff, who is as full of statistics as he is of sartorial patriotism, gave these further facts and style conjectures.

"The somber charcoal look is on the way out in America. At last! It was too old mannish. A brighter gray, and of course blue, will be the favorite colors this fall."

"Double breasted suits are coming back. So is the squarer-shaped shoulder."

"What are the most common mistakes men make in their clothing? They wear their pants too long—they should just reach the shoe top, not break over the instep—and their coatsleeves, too. At least a half inch of shirt cuff should protrude from the coat-sleeve."

"About 51 per cent of American husbands are accompanied by their wives when buying a suit. But men should listen even more to their wives when picking out the shoes, ties, socks and shirts to wear with their suits. Women are better at selecting a good color or ensemble. They should be. They've got more time to think about such things."

"Half the men's suits sold in America are priced around $65. 'For $700 a man can be well dressed on a basic wardrobe consisting of three winter suits, three summer suits, two sport-coats, four pairs of slacks, two op-coats and a raincoat. He can keep up such a wardrobe for less than $200 a year.'"

Daroff is probably his own best customer. He gets 20 new suits a year—and buys them from himself.

DOROTHY DIX

His Family Turns Hostile
Father's Second Wife
Vacillating Willie

Dear Dorothy Dix: Tony and I fell in love and began to go steady six months ago. I met his people, and they were extremely nice to me. They joined in our plans for the future, invited me to the house often, bought me clothes and even gave me gifts for my hope chest.

Then my family invited Tony's folks for dinner to celebrate my mother's birthday. They accepted and we all had a most enjoyable evening. Two days later, however, Tony was given orders to stop seeing or else. He had to ask for all his, and his family's gifts, which of course were returned.

What could have brought about this sudden and drastic change? Tony claims he'll marry me with or without his mother's consent. I know he loves me, and I love him, but to marry under those circumstances would be unbearable. Should I ask his parents what changed them?

Dear Lu Anne: The leading question here is: What happened on the night of the birthday party? And you are certainly entitled to the answer. Tony, in fact, should be the one to face his mother, get the truth, and relay it to you.

It most probably is a misunderstanding or misconception that the lady would be fair about it. Could very nicely be cleared up if perhaps your family doesn't measure up to her notions of society. Dad may have used the wrong fork, or the decor of your living room might be somewhat less than elegant. At any rate certainly you or Tony should get to the bottom of the trouble and demand an explanation of Mom's sudden reversal.

Milo Hackett felt freer and took a deep satisfying breath. It had been a pretty strong order for Norring to give. It was an out-and-out order for murder.

Norrington had pulled on his wide-brimmed black hat. He was at the door when Milo asked flatly: "What do you want me to do about Yates?"

Norrington gave him a close and callous look across his shoulder. "I want you to get Ude. That's the important thing. If meantime, you find Chantry tell him to look in at his office. About Yates—he deserves the same as Ude."

Milo smiled as Norring walked of toward Chantry's office. Milo's luck was changing. He had it all dished out the way he wanted. The order to kill Frank Ude was seconded in importance by his boss' remarks about Yates. Milo had been given a free hand in both instances. Yates was here in Cashington now, and would warrant first attention.

Norrington, meantime, arrived at Chantry's office without finding trace of the sheriff. He was determined this time he'd wait for Lew Chantry until he returned.

He was still smiling as he reached for the bracket lantern and rubbed a match across his pants.

He felt this pleasure run through his veins warm and full and then his concentration sharpened. He'd been in this office twice before, and twice tonight he'd missed it. Slowly he reached out a hand and touched the knife that Chantry had tipped into his scarred desk top. His fingers ran up and down the hard butcher's cord covering the handle. His thumb nail ran across the blade's edge finding it razor keen. There was even the faint letter E scrawled in the blade's opposite side which settled the issue in Norring's mind.

This was the skinned knife Milo had brought back earlier in the week. He had tossed it arrogantly onto Norring's desk, his face wearing an insolent leer as Steve left his eyes lift. Hackett was as vain as the oldtime trappers and must lift a scalp when he counted coup. The knife had been brought in as proof that Rambaut was dead.

Hackett had later passed the knife along to the roustabout Frank Ude had killed this evening. The man hadn't used a knife on Ude, though he had been told to. Certain facets of Lew Chantry's recent behavior returned to memory. He read Chantry to be worried—worried over more and deeper matters than Yates being hidden in this town. He was sure the man Ude had killed had had trouble with Chantry, had probably thrown the knife and Lew Chantry had saved it. The weapon bearing the initial of a dead man, being thrown at his belly, would have a morbid fascination for the lawman.

A sudden idea came to him. There was a small flat-roofed stable behind the jail where the lawman kept his horse. If the animal was gone he would know for certain Chantry was not in Cashington. He walked over, still carrying the knife between his fingers, crossed the plankwalk and ran to the stable in the rear. The rusty door squealed in opening. With a hand now trembling he scratched a match. The flame went out almost as quickly as it had appeared. But Norring knew now. The stall was empty.

Lily had been unable to sleep. Prowling through the empty hotel corridor she had seen Norring stalking toward the lower end of Tony can show his, and your, co-operation by telling his mother he won't see you without her permission, for a while, but that you love each other too much to make the separation permanent. Assure her that you don't want to go against her wishes, but continued unreasonableness will force just such a measure.

Dear Dorothy Dix: Is it right for children of a first marriage to mention the name of the second wife in writing to their father? For instance, "with love to yourself and wife" or something like that.

Dear Rhoda: This depends so much on circumstances that a direct answer would be impossible. Other than to say that mere politeness would probably dictate a mention of wife No. 2. Do as you are inclined, with extra emphasis on the kindness angle.

Dear Dorothy Dix: After Willie and I went together for over a year, he married another girl. I've talked to him since his marriage and he said it was just done on an impulse. He claims he doesn't love her, but me. He's agreed to get a divorce if I'll wait a year. Do you think I should wait?

Dear J. B.: You wouldn't dream of walking into a girl's house and stealing her pearls, would you? Then why deliberately plan to steal her husband? The fact that he's willing doesn't lessen your sin. Furthermore, this apparent willingness almost certainly will vanish with the wind, and you'll be looking rather foolish. Be smart; keep your self-respect, and the respect of others. Tell him an emphatic "nothing doing!"

Actor's Son
Involved in Serious Wreck

HOLLYWOOD, (UP) —Edward G. Robinson Jr., 23, was booked on suspicion of elony drunk driving today after his sports car struck four parked cars and police said he failed to pass an intoxicometer test.

A passenger in Robinson's car, Martin Barth, 37, was thrown through the window of the car and doctor's at Santa Monica hospital said he may lose his right eye because of injuries suffered. Young Robinson, son of the famed movie "tough guy" was not hurt.

Police at the West Los Angeles substation where Robinson was being held said that in view of the felony complaint the youth could not be released on bail and must await a habeas corpus order through his lawyer.

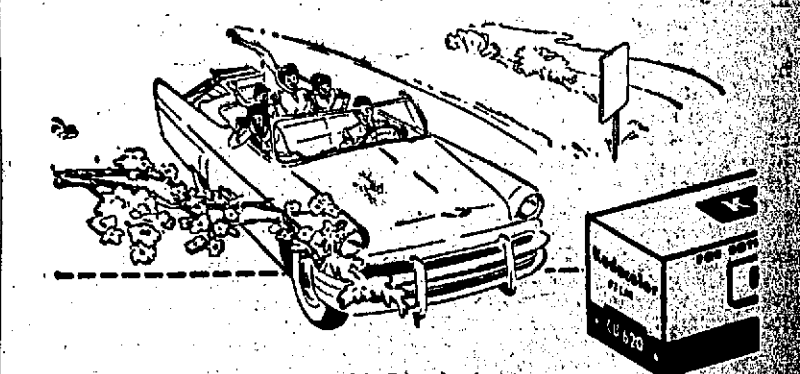

Robinson has been involved in a series of scrapes with the law in recent years but a police official described today's action as "serious."

Last April 24 he was treated for an overdose of sleeping tablets after he was found unconscious in his apartment. His wife, Frances, 33, divorced him earlier this year because of his drinking. The older Robinson now is starring in a Broadway play.

HE SAID NO
GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (UP)—A prisoner being booked by turnkey Henry Vanderbelt answered "no" yesterday when asked whether he was married.
But Vanderbelt wasn't sure what to put on the record, since the man was charged with bigamy.

Harshman Wins Close Battle From Orioles

By E DWILKS
Of The Associated Press

In 1953, Jack Harshman gave his wife a catcher's mitt for Christmas. He wanted to practice all he could before making his bid as a major league pitcher the next spring, and after seven futile years as a first baseman, they both figured he had a lot of catching up to do.

Yesterday, he caught up with the record book.

Only twice since 1900 had major league pitchers battled each other with one - hitter in one game. Yesterday the third such game went into the books and Harshman won it 1-0 for the Chicago White Sox against Baltimore's Connie Johnson and George Zverink.

The victory left the second place Sox five games behind the American League leading New York Yankees, who open a four-game series in Chicago's Comiskey Park tonight after an open date yesterday. In Thursday's other games Cleveland beat Boston and Tom Brewer's jinx 5-0 behind Early Wynn's four - hitter, and Kansas City slammed Washington back into the cellar 15-6.

In the National, Milwaukee's Braves won their sixth straight under new Manager Fred Haney and retained first place with a 7-2 job on Pittsburgh's slumping Pirates. Brooklyn held on to second in the only other game played, beating St. Louis 9-8 as Roy Campanella hit a pair of three-run homers, his second tying it in a winning four-run ninth inning rally with two out.

Rain postponed Chicago a New York in the only other game scheduled.

Harshman, three-time loser as a first baseman with the New York Giant, has won only four of eight decisions with the White Sox this season. But three have been beauties. He beat Cleveland and Herb Score 1-0 in a double two-hitter in his first start April 19, and he beat Washington 7-0 on four hits June 16. He gave seven hits in the other victory, edging Baltimore 3-2.

The only hit he 28-year-old southpaw allowed yesterday was a seventh-inning double by Gus Triandos. But Harshman who has a string of 20 scoreless innings toting, nailed him a third after fielding Hal Smith's attempted sacrifice.

In all Harshman — who was 14-8 and fanned 16 in one game in his 1954 debut with the White Sox, and 11-7 last season — faced 32 men, walking four and striking out four.

The only White Sox hit off Johnson, who went to Baltimore from Chicago last month, was a first-inning double by Nellie Fox. But it followed a leadoff walk to Jim Rivera, who then stole second. Johnson, who fanned seven, was lifted for a pinch-hitter in the eighth.

It was the first double one-hitter since Bobby Cain and the St. Louis Browns — Baltimore's predecessors in the AL — beat Bob Feller and Cleveland 1-0 April 23, 1952. The winning run was scored in the first inning of that one, too, with Marty Marion, now White Sox field boss, driving it in as player-manager of the Browns.

Travelers Finally Win a Contest

By The Associated Press
A Valentine that arrived in May has plenty to do with Atlanta's ability to keep company with the Southern Association pennant contenders.

This Valentine, a big swarthy right-hander who will answer to Harold but prefers Corky, posted his fifth victory last night in six decisions as the Crackers rose to third place with a 7-2 verdict over he reeling Memphis Chicks. I was Memphis' seventh consecutive defeat and the ninth loss for the sixth place Chicks in their last 10 games.

Mobile battered Chattanooga's bid for an eighth straight victory 6-3, and last place Little Rock put the brakes to an eight-game losing skid by trouncing the pace-setting Birmingham Barons 5-1. The liss cut Birmingham's lead to 4 1/2 games, because runnerup Nashville was not scheduled along with New Orleans.

At Fort Riley, Kansas after having served two years in Germany and A-3c Legans is currently stationed at P. B. Florida Air Force Base. He just completed Basic Training at Keiser, Mississippi.

Mrs. and Mrs. John D. Johnson and family, Mrs. Minnie Story and children and Mr. and Mrs. George Stroughter and daughter left Thursday, June 21, enroute to their home in Visalia, California, after having spent several days visiting relatives and friends in the city.

Mrs. Frances Phillips and granddaughter Patricia Ann left Saturday night, June 16 for Chicago, Illinois where they will visit her daughter Miss Irene Palmer, her niece Mrs. Thelma Fiskerson, her nephew Mr. James Stinson. She will also visit her son Ralph Palmer in Grand Rapids, Michigan.

"The keys? I locked them in the car so they'd be safe!"

THE BEST CROWD TO FOLLOW IS THE CROWD GOING TO CHURCH

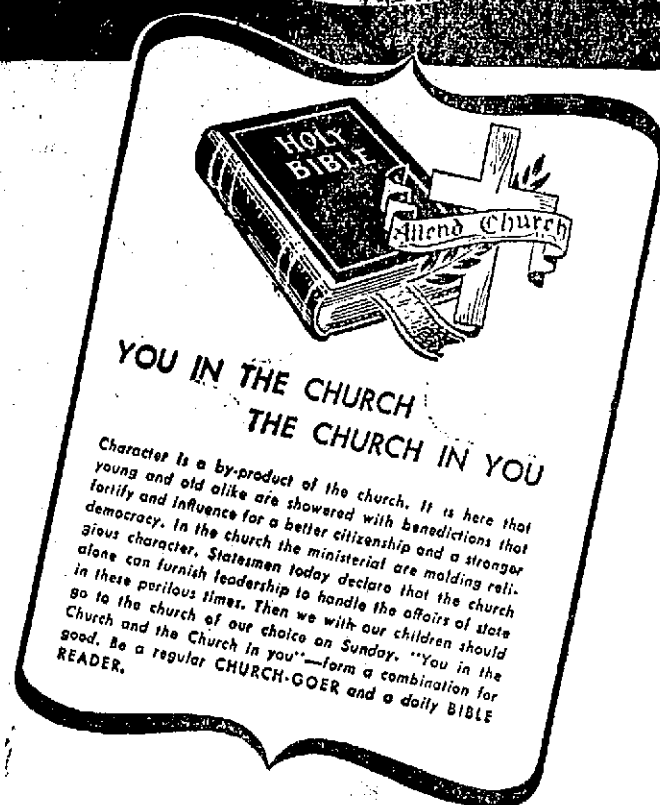

THERE'S NO EVIL THERE EXCEPT WHAT YOU CARRY WITH YOU

ANCHORED

Do you have an anchor? Ships without anchors will drift. People without anchors will drift too. Do you know where to drop your anchor? Can you say, "My heart is fixed trusting in the Lord?" Psalms 112:7. Are you an anchor holding family and friends together? Is your anchor imbedded deeply in truth and righteousness? Phil. 1:28.

EVERY MAN must answer to God and to his own conscience. The sins we do by two and two; we must answer for one by one. If God holds your soul, your feet will never be moved, Psalms 66:9. Do right though the Heavens fall. Be true even if all others are false. The Church, the Bible and daily prayer are sure anchors for every man.
